The Times (London) Trade Supplement for January 24, 1920, contains items dealing with Hispanic America as follows: "Argentine industries.—Activities of local German firms"; "Cuban development.—Construction material needed"; "Cuba's trade with the United States.—American exporters losing ground"; "Development of Colombia.—Future for British goods"; and "Floor tiles for Cuba".

La Tribuna is the name of a weekly paper printed in Spanish in New York City, which is now in its second year. It describes itself as a "Defensora de los intereses de la raza hispana". The paper is well printed and well illustrated, and contains abundant of Hispanic American material. The number for October 25, 1919, contains an article by the Spanish savant, Professor Adolfo Bonilla y San Martín of the University of Madrid, entitled "Don Juan Cebrián en Nueva York; lo que es y lo que significa", in which he mentions something of the influence that has been exerted by Mr. Cebrián on the western continent. Professor Bonilla y San Martín, it will be remembered, gave a course at summer school in the University of California in 1915.
